DETAILED ACTION

This Office action is in response to applicant's amendment filed on 1/31/2008.

Status of Claims

Claims 1-9, 12-20 are pending.

Claims 10-11 have been withdrawn.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

Claims 1-2, 4-5, 7, 9, 13-16, and 20 stand rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by US Patent No. 6,019,678 to Takahashi.

Claim 1: Takahashi discloses in Fig. 1 a screen system comprising a screen 19, a frame (no labeled but wherein 19 points to) supporting said screen, said frame including a hook 20, and a housing 8 for supporting said frame when said screen system is assembled, said housing defining a retainer 18 which interacts with said hook whereby upon rotation of said frame in a first direction said hook engages said retainer and upon rotation of said frame in a second direction said hook disengages said retainer allowing disassembly of said screen system (col. 4, lines 24-30 and 53-66).

Claim 2: Wherein said hook 20 is integrally formed with said frame (see Fig. 1).

Claim 4: Wherein said retainer is a depression within said housing (see Fig. 1).

Claims 5, 13-14, and 16: Wherein said housing defines a seat 6 which supports said frame when said screen system is assembled, said seat defining an aperture or a gap 14 for the passage of said hook whereby during assembly of said screen system said hook passes through said aperture prior to rotation into engagement.

Claims 7 and 15: Wherein said frame further comprises an engagement surface (no labeled but wherein 19 points to) for a digit of a user, allowing the frame to be easily rotated.

Claim 9: Wherein said engagement surface is adjacent to said hook (see Fig. 1).

Claim 20: Takahashi discloses a screen system in Fig. 1, which can be easily disassembled, comprising: a screen 19; a circular frame (no labeled but wherein 19 points to) supporting the screen; a housing 8 defining a generally circular aperture 16 and a seat 6 circumscribing the aperture, the seat adapted to engage the frame when the frame is assembled to the housing; and a means 20 for releasably attaching the frame to the housing, wherein said means secures the frame to the housing when the frame is rotated to a first position relative to the housing, and the means releases the frame from the housing when the frame is rotated to a second position relative to the housing (see co1.4, lines 24-66).

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

Claims 6, and 17-19 stand rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Patent No. 6,019,678 to Takahashi.

Claims 6, 17, and 19: Takahashi discloses a screen system in Fig. 1 comprising a screen 19, a circular frame (no labeled but wherein 19 points to) supporting the screen, the frame having a first side and a second side, wherein the frame includes a hook 20 on a first side and a plurality of engagement surfaces on the second side, each of the plurality of engagement surfaces adapted to be engaged by a digit of a user; a housing

Art Unit: 3633

8 defining a generally circular aperture 2, the housing including a detent 18; a seat 6 circumscribing the aperture of the housing, the seat having a gap 14 around the circumference of the seat, each gap adapted to receive the hook; wherein, when assembled to the housing, the frame is rotatable between a first position and a second position relative to the housing, wherein in the first position the plurality of hooks engage the plurality of detents to secure the frame to the housing, and wherein in the second position the hooks are aligned with the gaps such that the frame may be separated from the housing. Takahashi discloses the invention as claimed except that the frame included more than one hooks and detents (four hooks and four detents- claim 19). However, this feature would have been a matter of obvious design choice to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to have more than one hooks and retainers for a better securement and thus preventing a device falling apart. Furthermore, applicant has not disclosed the criticality of this feature.

Claim 18: Wherein the seat abuts the first side of the frame when the frame is assembled to the housing.

Allowable Subject Matter

Claims 3, 8, and 12 were previously objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.

Response to Arguments

Applicant's arguments filed 1/31/2008 fully considered but they are not persuasive because the examiner believes the prior art teaches the applicant's invention and the prior structural elements capable of performing the claimed functions. Therefore the Office action will be maintained and made it final.

Conclusion

THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the mailing date of this final action.
